

THE WALL STREET JOURNAL.

Tech Review: A New Galaxy

PERSONAL JOURNAL | DI

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 9, 2016 - VOL. CCLXVII NO. 1

DOW JONES News Corp. *****

DJIA 16964.10 ▼ 109.85 0.6% NASDAQ 4648.82 ▼ 1.3% STOKX 600 337.48 ▼ 1.0% 10-YR. TREAS. ▲ 20/32, yield 1.832% OIL $36

What's News

Business & Finance

United shareholders PAR and Altimeter launched a fight to reshape the airline's board and install a former CEO as chairman. A1

◆ The Justice Department is using a far-reaching law against bank fraud to go after VW in an emissions-cheating investigation. B1

◆ Takata has enlisted restructuring lawyers amid an onslaught of vehicle recalls involving its air bags. B3

◆ Citigroup dealt another blow to investors hoping for a rebound in Wall Street banks' trading revenue. C1

◆ Lower-priced homes are selling quickly nationwide even as inventory of expensive homes piles up. A3

◆ The Fed is likely to hold rates steady next week while keeping options open to raise them in April or June. A2

◆ A bankrupt energy firm can shed expensive con-

Trump Tightens His

Donald Trump, left, on Tuesday won the GOP primaries in Michigan and Mississippi, while Sen. Bernie Sanders, top right, won the Democratic race in Michigan and Hillary Clinton, bottom right, won Mississippi.

Tuesday Results

Trump solidified his GOP lead, while Clinton and Sanders head

MICHIGAN

96% of precincts reporting

SANDERS ✓50%

MISSISSIPPI

100% of precincts reporting

CLINTON ✓83%

The Feed

A Barbecue Master Returns to the City

Warren Norstein, a chef who once worked at some of the city's top restaurants, left the Manhattan dining scene to pursue his culinary passion: barbecue. For the past decade, the Bouley veteran has run Big W's Roadside Bar-B-Q in Wingdale, N.Y., about 80 miles outside the city.

On Tuesday night, Mr. Norstein will speak at the 92nd Street Y on "Everything You Ever Wanted to Know About BBQ."

Mr. Norstein, 52 years old, admitted there is an irony talking about a culinary tradition rooted in pork and the Deep South at the New York Jewish institution. But he noted barbecue has many ties with the Jewish tradition of deli; they both use parts of the animal that are considered scraps, such as ribs, or lesser cuts like brisket.

At his talk, Mr. Norstein will serve the audience his famous smoked brisket and what he calls a "dirty rice pudding." Tickets are $45.

92nd Street Y, 1395 Lexington Ave., 92y.org/Event/Everything-You-Ever-Wanted-to-Know-About-BBQ

—Charles Passy

Brooklyn Bar Set In Fictional Town

New York City is bigger these days. It has added an entire town, albeit a fictional one.

Belle Shoals, a new bar in Williamsburg, Brooklyn, is set around a fictional small town with Southern roots. It opened on Feb. 29.

Quirky drink offerings include the "Jimbo" shots (Overholt Rye and Amaro Meletti), served in bullet casings; a Southern-inflected menu features biscuits with butter, green beans almon-dine and a chicken-fried skate fish sandwich.

10 Hope St., www.belleshoals.com

—Elva Ramirez

Brooklyn Bar Set In Fictional Town

New York City is bigger these days. It has added an entire town, albeit a fictional one.

Belle Shoals, a new bar in Williamsburg, Brooklyn, is set around a fictional small town with Southern roots. It opened on Feb. 29.

Quirky drink offerings include the "Jimbo" shots (Overholt Rye and Amaro Meletti), served in bullet casings; a Southern-inflected menu features biscuits with butter, green beans almon-dine and a chicken-fried skate fish sandwich.

10 Hope St., www.belleshoals.com

—Elva Ramirez

TSP

