

The Tastiest Restaurants To Celebrate National Lobster Day

BY TIM LATERNER | DINING + DRINKING, NEWS | SEPTEMBER 21, 2017

It's time to get cracking on one of the best food holidays of the late summer, National Lobster Day on September 25th. New York's best restaurants and eateries will show off the best of their crustacean creations with innovative ways to dig into lobsters without having to think about where to put the shells. To really get the last drops of summer out of the season, and get a great meal too, we're breaking down the best restaurant offerings in New York to enjoy lobster in every way possible.

While most people think of traditional lobster meals as cracking into red shells on hot summer days and with a big bowl of melted butter, Chef Jeff Haskell at the Refinery Hotel is rethinking the dish with something more suitable for the early Fall New Yorker on the go, these Lobster Tater Tots. Perfectly handy and potentially portable, these bite sized lobster delights pack a bold punch of flavor while still feeling like you're towing the line between Summer and Fall appropriately.
